

Allium in Norway

Overview of plant genetic resources, utilization of wild species and commercial production

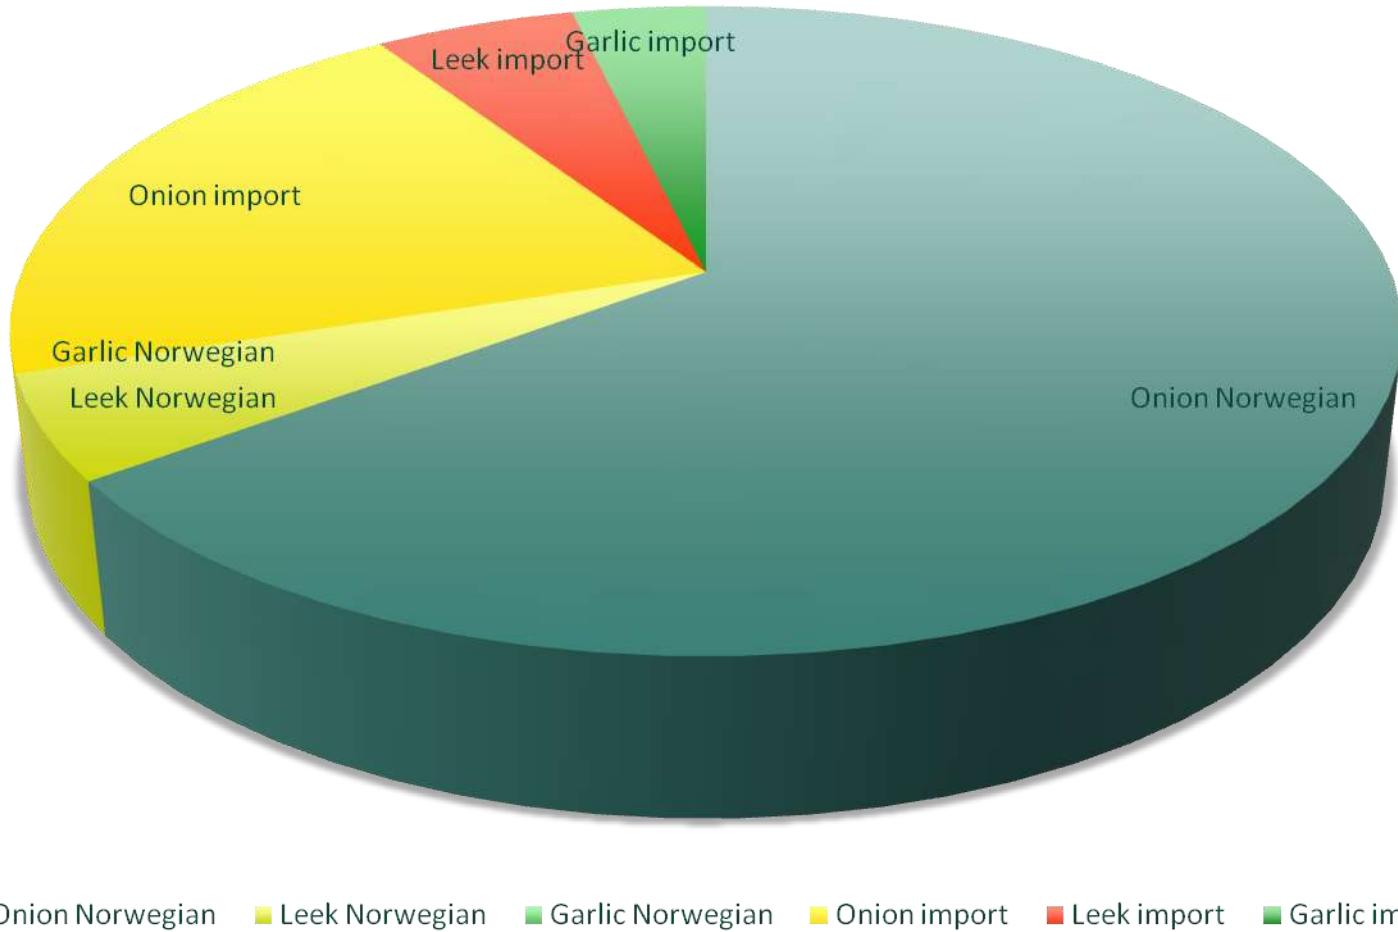

Ingunn M. Vågen

NIBIO Division Food Production and Society, Department of Horticulture,
Grimstad, Norway

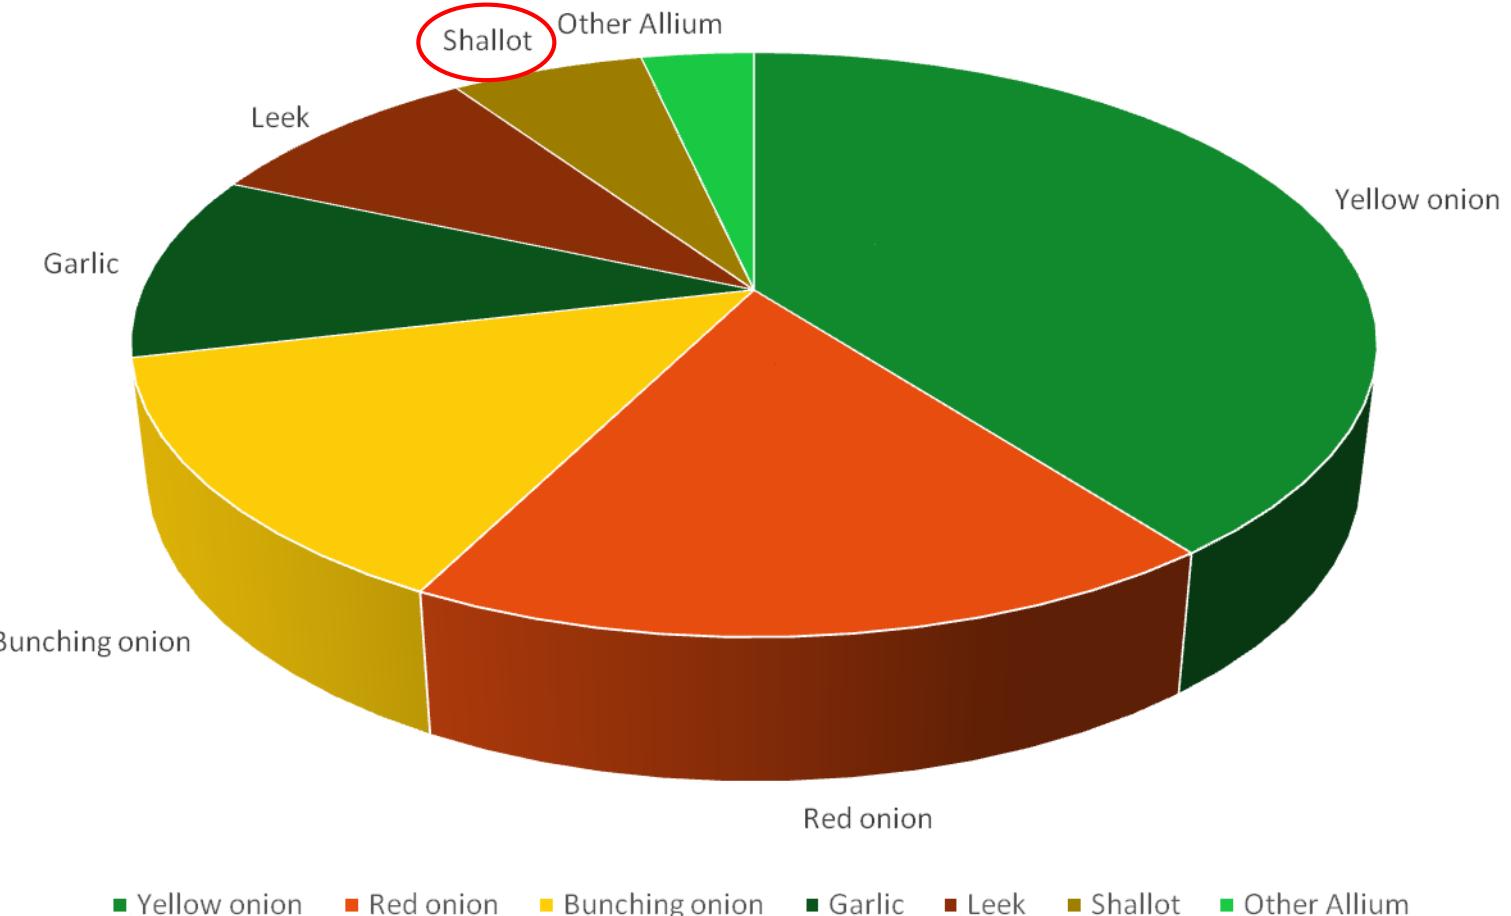

Allium genetic resources in collections

Name	Species	Number	Collection	Conservation
Onion	A. cepa	3	Seed	ex situ
Shallot	A. cepa ascalonicum / aggregatum	21	Field	ex situ
Leek	A. ampeloprasum	1	Seed	ex situ
Chives	A. schoenoprasum	7	Seed	ex situ
Bunching onion	A. fistulosum	7	Seed	ex situ
Ramsons	A. ursinum	x	Field / Seed	ex situ
Alpine leek	A. victorialis	4	Field	ex situ

Allium trade in Norway

Sales value of Alliums

Shallots – A.c. ascalonicum / aggregatum

Clones collected mainly during the 80's from private donors

Material origin ranges from 58° to 69° N

Photo: Åsmund Asdal

Photo: Ingunn M. Vågen

Ramsons – A. ursinum

Growing wild in parts of Norway

Very trendy and loved by chefs

Increasing commercial use

Photo: Gunhild Børtnes

Photo: Stephen Barstow

Alpine leek – A. victorialis

Traditional plant in gardens and churchyards in northern parts of Norway

Spread to the wild

Photo: Stephen Barstow

Photo: Brynhild Mørkved

Bunching onion – A. fistulosum

Traditionally planted on turf roofs

This tradition dates several hundred years back

